On a complaint made to Grand Juror William Wishart, Chief Sinclair went yesterday to Northfield, where he arrested Charles Young on a charge of non-support. Young was brought back to Barre last night and locked up at police headquarters. He will be arraigned before Magistrate H. W. Scott in city court this afternoon. It is alleged that Young left Barre three months ago. He has a wife and six children dependent upon him and the authorities claim that he has failed to provide for them.

Police headquarters got a call from the Montpelier road last night soon after operators aboard one of the main line cars of the traction company had removed two men from the track. Chief Sinclair and Deputy Gamble went down the road and arrested two men whose contact with the mud successfully screened them from identity. They were locked up at police headquarters and to-day the natural camouflage created by their experience of yesterday was removed and identity became possible. John Kerr of Roxbury will serve an alternate sentence in the county jail, having failed to disclose satisfactorily and being unable to finance the assessment fixed for him in city court. John L. Barre Masonry was well represented at the annual Masonic dance in Brookfield last evening, when the lodge in that town lived up to its reputation for hospitality by entertaining a very large crowd of dancing folk. The dance continued until after midnight and a luncheon was served at intermission. Carroll's orchestra of this city played for the dancing.

Thomas Brew, a former employee of the Metropolitan insurance agency in this city, left by automobile this morning for Hartford, Conn., where he is employed. Mr. Brew came here to spend his vacation and was delayed in returning because of the heavy rains. He is now engaged as an insurance underwriter in Hartford.

Travelers over four main highways entering the city describe vividly and their own vehicles proclaim the fact that highway conditions are nearly at their worst as a result of the continued rains. Even heavy chains do not operate wholly to the protection of the motorist and several narrow escapes from sideswiping encounters and skidding have been reported. One motorist who makes his way to Barre over a roadway of clay stated this morning that the going to-day was preferable to that of yesterday because traffic had worn ruts in a highway where only a light coating of mud existed yesterday.

Transportation conditions in the Barre granite district on the whole are much better this fall than the more sanguine granite producers had expected, according to a statement made to-day by a local railroad man, who asserts that freight movements, with respect to rough and finished granite, are fairly satisfactory. The shortage of cars continues, but there are fewer embargoes and the manufacturer and quarry may view with equanimity the prospects for getting prompt shipments through to far western destinations. Scarcity of labor continues to add to life's little worries on Millstone hill and it is believed that a considerable influx of men into this district would find immediate employment in the quarries.

Perils of Oil Cargoes.

The explosion of vessels carrying petroleum frequently occurs, and this is generally caused not by the cargoes of oil which they contain, but by the inflammable vapor which is left behind after the huge tanks of the ships have been emptied.

It is difficult to remove all the oil that adheres to the sides of the tank, and the evaporation of the oil film left in them after they have been pumped out takes place with great rapidity. Moreover, the vapor thus formed mingles readily with the air and is capable of rendering more than 2,000 times its own volume of the latter inflammable. A spark may thus cause a fearful explosion in the hold of a ship that is apparently empty.

A film of petroleum spreading over the surface of the water has been known to produce enough of this volatile and dangerous vapor to cause a conflagration, by which a number of ships lying in a harbor have been suddenly enveloped in roaring flames as if by a stroke of magic.

He Wins Who Works.

And still people talk about born singers, artists, inventors and mechanics. The theory is illogical, and the truth of it has never been demonstrated. It is true that there are a few individuals who are born into the world with an unusual amount of latent ability, and people call them talented. The difference between the words talent and latent is merely a variation in the location of the letters. The meaning of the two words is almost identical. The possession of talent means the possession of some latent quality which requires development for perfect expression. A freak is not a genius because, although usually lacking in the consciousness of power, he feels no need for growth, and even the power that he possesses gradually diminishes instead of expanding. The man who works for years and finally reaches the goal of his dreams always smiles when he hears some one speak of a born genius.—Los Angeles Times.

British Field Marshals.

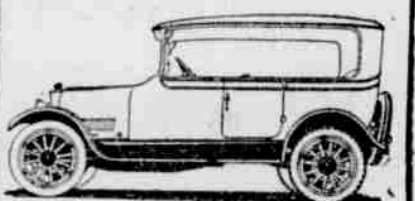

A field marshal in the British army is equivalent to an admiral of the fleet in the royal navy.

No whip cuts so deeply as the lash of conscience.—Proverb.

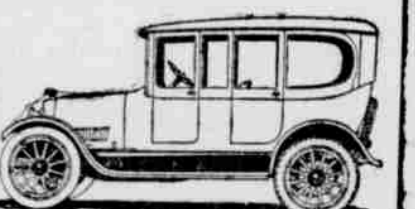

Had to Swallow Many Things.

An amusing anecdote is related of the late Hungarian statesman Tisza, who when one day dining at the Hofburg with the Austrian emperor placed a large pear upon his plate at dessert. The emperor remarked to his minister that cold fruit after a hot dinner was injurious to the digestion. Tisza replied, "The stomach of a Hungarian prince, your majesty, is obliged to be a strong one."
